Call for park's green flag to be taken down

EXCLUDING the public from large tracts of Finsbury Park because of security fencing for two music festivals has led to a demand for the Green Flag award, which Haringey Council received for the park's upkeep, to be suspended until the fencing is taken down.

Martin Ball has written to the Keep Britain Tidy organisation, who runs the Green Flag scheme, a benchmark of national excellence for parks and green spaces, saying the park has been turned into "a fortress" and complaining that large sections are off-limits, with high security fencing surrounding the children's playground and even the flagpole on which the flag flies positioned inside the cordoned-off area.

The fencing has been up since the middle of June for the Wireless 10 anniversary festival and last weekend's Wireless Festival and isn't scheduled to be dismantled by promoters Live Nation until Friday.

In his letter Mr Ball, who lives in Tottenham Hale and is chairman of Friends of Down Lane Park, writes: "I ask that you undertake an immediate re-judging of the park to ensure that it is in the fit condition to continue to have a Green Flag award."

"But for the duration of the events you have to send a message to Haringey Council that they can't expect to be allowed to parade your award while hiring a third (approx) of the park to concert events that exclude park users."

Paul Todd, Green Flag scheme manager, replied by saying that suspending the award would only happen if it was believed a park had fallen below the standards expected.

"Many of our winning sites hold events throughout the year, which form part of a park's offer and we accept that during these events access to parts of the site may be restricted," he said.

"The management of events is contained within Finsbury Park's management plan and therefore formed part of our assessment. Events were discussed during the assessment as preparation was taking place during the judging visit."

DAVID'S BIKE TREK IN BABY'S MEMORY

Fundraising father and four friends cycle 420 miles

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlnews.co.uk

A FATHER whose baby girl died 18 weeks after she was born completed a 420-mile fundraising cycle ride in her memory last week.

David Rogers's daughter Jasmin died in 2013 from complications due to restricted growth in the womb. She weighed just 3lb 4oz, half her expected birth weight, even though she was a full-term baby.

The 45-year-old freelance journalist and four friends spent five days cycling to Harrogate, in North Yorkshire, David's home town, after setting off from his home, in Warwick Road, Bounds Green, where Jasmin was born.

They were raising funds for the London Centre for Cerebral Palsy, in Muswell Hill, as well as Whittington Babies, a neo-natal charity run by parents of children who have been patients in Whittington Hospital, in Archway.

The Whittington, where David's wife Parminder received ante-natal care and where Jasmin was due to be born, has since adopted a new system to spot babies who have stopped growing in the womb to try and prevent similar tragedies happening.

It is called the Jasmin Project and was launched in March. It uses growth charts to check on foetal development.

"Jasmin was a special baby girl," said David "Undoubtedly, the charts will save lives. We want to feel that her death wasn't in vain and she can leave a legacy to help other babies."

The London Centre for Cerebral Palsy will receive a share of the money raised by the Jasmin Journey cycle challenge, which will go towards its £1million target to build a new centre and school on its existing Muswell Hill site.

Elena Damiani, community and events fundraising manager for the centre, said "We are honoured that David and Parminder have chosen to raise funds for us. There are not enough words to express our gratitude. Every pound we receive will make a lasting difference to the young children and families we support."

Festival with a feast of food

WITH the smells of fine cheese, charcuterie, sweet treats and exotic delights wafting through Alexandra Park – the foodie festival set mouths watering for miles around.

The festival of all things food and drink-related kicked off on Friday and entertained hundreds, with stalls offering everything from specialist black pudding, to authentic coconut water, to speciality pizza topped with haggis.

The sun shone and the crowds were treated to masterclasses in fine cuisine from stars including Masterchef finalists Tony Rood and Emma Spitzer, as well as chef Peter Joseph, from Mayfair's Tamarind restaurant.

Feasting festival-goers feasting were able to relax and enjoy live music from the entertainment stage while sipping cocktails provided by the Giant Pimms Teapot and the Captain Morgan Mojito Galleon.

Tucking in: The festival provided visitors to Alexandra Park with an array of tasty treats

MP in fight to save every hospital bed

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

AN MP has pledged to fight for "every square metre" of a hospital earmarked for redevelopment.

Joan Ryan, the MP for Enfield North, has slammed the plans of the Royal Free London NHS Foundation Trust to bring the spread-out departments and wings of Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, under one roof, with the loss of 16 surgical beds.

The trust is planning to plough between £109million and £120m into the new development, partly funded by the selling of some of the land for housing and a school.

Ms Ryan has said that the plan is a way of the trust trying to reduce Chase Farm to the size of "a cottage hospital".

In 2013, the A&E and maternity units at the hospital were closed, despite a long and vocal campaign by residents.

"Under these plans there are going to be no intensive care beds – just four beds in the high dependency unit – and clearly the plan is for no complex surgeries will be carried out there," the MP told the Advertiser.

"This decision was rushed through before the general election and I think we are going to have to fight for every square metre of space."

According to a CQC report on Chase

Farm in 2011, the hospital had 470 beds. After the axing of maternity and A&E, the hospital now has 44 beds for patient rehabilitation and 68 surgical beds.

The new plans will see the number of rehab beds stay the same, but there will only be 52 surgical beds in the new hospital.

However, despite warnings from the MP that the hospital will shrink to such an extent that it will only cater for day procedures and surgeries, the trust points to the millions they are investing in the new plans – and the improvements in technology and efficiency that will come about as a result of the revamp.

A trust spokesman said: "Work to determine the number of beds needed has been clinically-led, taking into account the current and future health needs of the local population.

"Advances in medicine mean that care is increasingly delivered in the community or as day procedures, resulting in better patient outcomes.

"We are therefore confident the hospital will have the right number of beds to continue providing all the services it currently delivers for the community.

"The new hospital has been designed to allow for expansion in response to evolving health needs, so more beds can be accommodated in future."

Rotten fruit seller fined

A GROCER has been fined £900 for selling rotting produce after ignoring countless warnings from "the fruit and veg police".

On no fewer than 16 occasions between August 2012 and November 2014, Sadin Kilac was visited at his shop, in Fore Street, Edmonton, by the Horticultural Marketing Inspectorate.

At Tottenham Magistrates' Court last week, Kilac, the owner of Bin Diyar Ltd, pleaded guilty to eight charges of selling rotten fruit and vegetables and was fined £900, with £500 costs.

Rural Payments Agency Operations director Paul Caldwell said: "In this case, the prosecution followed a series of risk-based inspection visits to the shop over nearly two-and-a-half years.

"During this time Mr Kilac consistently failed to meet his statutory responsibility and failed to ensure that the quality and labelling of the fresh produce on offer for sale met the required minimum standards permitted."

Pub fire rescue

FOURTEEN people escaped from a fire in a pub in Enfield Town in the early hours of Friday morning.

The blaze broke out in The Stag, in Little Park Gardens, just before 1.30am.

More than 20 firefighters battled the flames and were able to help 14 people from the pub and its guest rooms to safety.

They brought the blaze under control within 90 minutes. The cause of the fire is being investigated.

Diversity celebrated

HUNDREDS of revellers had fun in the sun at a free community event organised by teenage Scouts in Ponders End Recreation Ground on Saturday.

One Enfield reflected the borough's rich diversity of cultures and faiths with entertainment including the sounds of bhangra and Bollywood dance.

Enfield Explorer Scouts had spent months organising the event, contacting community groups and artists, raising money and negotiating with the council for use of the park.

The project was aimed at reaching out to the entire community and bringing different groups together. It was part of the Scouting Association's Community Impact Initiative, which supports its Step Up to Serve Campaign.

In addition to Bollywood dancing, performed by Winchmore School's Bollywood Dance Group, there was also the crossover dhol drumming of True Bhangra Beatz with guitar and vocals by Bush Hill Park Explorer Scout Jason Healey and friends.

Other attractions included games, stalls, sideshows and community stands, as well as face painting, henna tattoos and an assault course.

Deputy mayor of Enfield Bernadette Lappage attended the event and said it was "wonderful to see young people showing such great community leadership".

Pupils aiming to set world reading record

Challenge: Ayfer Orhan

By James Cracknell

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A READING challenge in Enfield this summer could help break a world record.

At the launch of the Summer Reading Challenge 2015 children will take part in a nationwide attempt to break the world record for the most number of book-reading pledges received as part of a campaign.

The event's organisers have teamed up with Guinness World Records – publisher of the annual Guinness World Records book – and are encouraging children to discover some of its "weird and wonderful" entries.

Summer Reading Challenge 2015 starts on Saturday and runs until September 13. It is aimed at children aged between four and 11.

Ayfer Orhan, Enfield Council's cabinet member for children's services, said: "During the challenge, children are encouraged to read six or more library books of their choice in the summer holidays collecting rewards along the way as they read each book."

"There is a certificate and medal for every child who completes the challenge."

"Children can sign up at any library in Enfield during the summer holidays – it's absolutely free – and pre-schoolers can take part in 'toddle into books'."

"This is all about making reading fun and establishing a good habit for life."

Last year more than 3,000 children in Enfield took part. For further details, go to www.enfield.gov.uk/library/src

Steps to save the Tin Tabernacle

A DANCE teacher is hoping that a little salsa can help save a little landmark.

Sureka Fernando says the Tin Tabernacle, in Herbert Road, next to Bowes Park station, is an "amazing place" that deserves to be preserved for the community.

The building, officially called Shaftesbury Hall, is owned by the North London Samaritans, but has fallen into disrepair and needs £200,000 worth of work to be reopened.

Ms Fernando hopes her summer charity party on Saturday can contribute to the cause.

She said: "The Samaritans want to make this building their base and use it as a community space, but they need a huge amount of funding."

"This Saturday will be a great opportunity to get together, have fun and raise money for this amazing little place."

The Tin Tabernacle, a Victorian church for railway workers made out of corrugated iron, is now derelict and covered in overgrowth – but despite the building's decrepit state, residents in the area have campaigned for it to be preserved and restored for use by the Samaritans.

Ms Fernando runs dance classes, called Salsa With Sureka, from The Hub, in Myddleton Road.

With workshops, demonstrations and large-scale experiments taking place in schools across the borough, pupils were able to take time out from revising for end-of-year exams to enjoy the sight of miniature rockets being fired across sports halls and to see light years represented by sheets of toilet paper.

Children from St Edmund's Primary School, in Hertford Road, Edmonton, were joined by their counterparts from Latymer All Saints Primary School, in Hydehorpe Avenue, Edmonton, to experience TV presenters Mark Brake and Jon Chase, from iScience, prove to the pupils that outer space is not as scary as films make out.

TV presenter Jon, who fronted CBBC science programme Space Hoppers and penned raps for NASA, countered Mark's pessimistic outlook with a passionate plea for the youngsters to share his love of space.

Demonstrating the energy needed to fire rockets into space, eager volunteers stamped

£1,000 reward in hunt for rail station raiders

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

RAIL bosses are offering a cash reward to anyone who can help them catch would-be thieves who broke into a station under the cover of darkness and tried to break into a cashpoint.

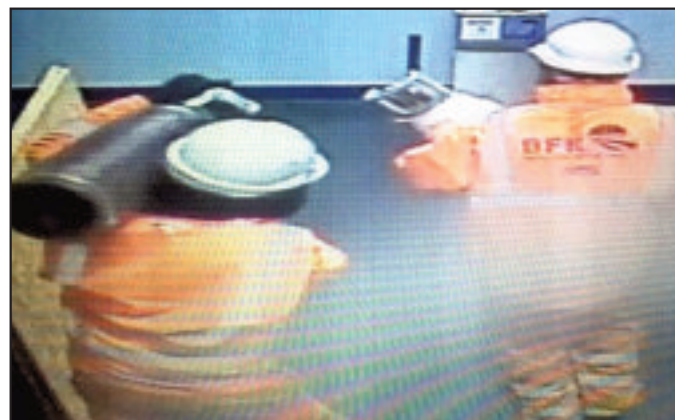

Great Northern Rail, who manages the station, has announced the promise of a £1,000 reward to anyone who can help them catch the six men who tried to break into the back of the cash machine in the front wall of Enfield Chase station, in Windmill Hill, Enfield, on June 15.

The rail company is offering the reward after hundreds of commuters were left stranded as the robbers barricaded themselves inside the foyer of the station in the early hours of the morning to avoid detection for as long as possible.

The boards barring the entrance remained in place as rush hour dawned and while a few early commuters were able to break through into the station, the majority of passengers were forced to find other means of travel as forensics teams cordoned off the station.

Two 24-year-old men were arrested on June 23 on suspicion of burglary. Both have been released on police bail until July 28.

Officers are now hunting for six suspects they believe dressed in Network Rail-style high-visibility clothes as they got into the station foyer from the tracks.

Caught on CCTV: Two of the raiders inside Enfield Chase station

Police believe that once the six were inside the station they obscured the cameras and then boarded up the entrance before trying to break into the back of the cashpoint with power tools.

Detective Inspector Karina Ghersinich, from British Transport Police, said: "We continue to appeal for information from anyone who saw suspicious activity in the area of Enfield Chase station after dark, between Saturday, June 13, and Monday, June 15. Any piece of information, however small, could prove crucial to this investigation."

Roger Perkins, from Great Northern Rail, said: "Those responsible for this crime caused thousands of pounds worth of damage to the station and a great deal of inconvenience for our passengers. We are offering a £1,000 reward for information which leads to the successful arrest and prosecution."

Anyone with information can call British Transport Police on 0800 40 50 40, or text 61016, quoting E/B5 of 15/06/2015. Alternatively, anonymous information can be given to Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Arts group hopes to round up Ranelagh's classic memories

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

FIRST dates, screaming rows, drunken nights of debauchery and fateful meetings are par for the course in many pubs.

And now an arts organisation is hoping to collect together people's significant memories of one particular historic boozer on Enfield's borough boundary with Haringey.

Memories: Miriam Sherwood, pub manager Ian Griffin, Eleanor Harding and Ashton Baafi

The Ranelagh, in Bounds Green Road, has witnessed the drama of wine-soaked Friday nights, boozy weekends and leisurely Sunday lunches since 1862 – and three passionate historians want to preserve a record of people's memories of the pub forever.

Miriam Sherwood, a theatre and arts producer, founding member of Travelling Tent, an oral history and arts organisation, and a native of Bounds Green, has issued a call to anyone who remembers their own personal stand-out moments from the pub over the years.

The memories will be preserved for posterity in an archive in the Bruce Castle Museum, in Lordship Lane, Tottenham, and will also contribute to a sharing event planned to take place in the pub itself in October.

Speaking to the Advertiser, Miriam, 26, said: "We believe that everyone has a story worth hearing and we want to encourage people to share their stories."

The team have focused their attention on this particular hostelry because "there has been a Ranelagh pub on that site since 1862".

"We want to allow people to feel connected to their history and we want to celebrate it at a time when pubs, which are some of our most historic buildings, are closing down everyday," said Miriam.

Bar talk: The Ranelagh pub in Bounds Green Road

As well as preserving memories of the pub, people who share them with the group will have the opportunity to take part in workshops in July and August and the event in October.

Explaining why the pub means so much as a site of local history, Miriam added: "It was here long before there was even a community here. It has played a central role in the development of the area and we want to look into that and research it."

Anyone wishing to take part in the oral history project can get in touch with Miriam on 07793 502 566 or can email hi.travellingtent@gmail.com

In the frame for photo competition

PHOTOGRAPHERS have the chance to see their snaps in galleries and exhibitions across the borough.

Enfield Council has launched a photo competition as part of the borough's 50th anniversary celebrations, dubbed LBE50.

Photographers of all ages are invited to capture an image of a subject of their choosing in Enfield, under one of five categories – home, school, work, leisure and landmarks.

Anyone living, working or studying in Enfield can enter – and there is a special category for young photographers aged between 10 and 14.

All winning photos will be displayed in a gallery on the council website and may appear in exhibitions around the borough.

Deputy council leader Achilleas Georgiou said: "The competition will be celebrating by not only reviewing the best of Enfield's past, but looking for iconic photos which show everything good about the modern borough of Enfield."

Entries can be emailed to lbe50@enfield.gov.uk with the subject line "photo competition". The closing date is September 7.

For details of all the events, go to www.enfield.gov.uk/lbe50

MP called up for select committee

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE new MP for Edmonton has made a splash in her first months in the Commons after being selected to sit on a powerful group of parliamentarians set to scrutinise every aspect of education in this country.

Kate Osamor, who was elected by a landslide majority of 25,388 votes in May's general election, has been chosen as a member of the select committee, which investigates government policy on all areas of education.

The MP, who spoke before the election of her determination to stand up for her constituents, said: "For people like myself, who come from working-class backgrounds, it can change things."

"Education can improve people's lives, it can make things fairer by giving people opportunities. I have seen at first hand how important it is."

"I was a governor for a school in Tottenham, I was then chairwoman of governors. We went through quite a difficult time when it was nearly made into an academy, but we got through that and managed to stop that process."

One of the major concerns that Ms Osamor is keen for the community to address is the government's new education and adoption bill, which it is said will target "coasting" schools.

The MP admits she is "very concerned" about the bill as, she says, without a proper definition of what a coasting school is – it will be impossible to objectively tell whether a school is really in trouble – or whether it's being targeted by the government who have their own ideological agenda.

The pressure children are put under in primary schools as a result of testing is another area Ms Osamor, pictured, is hoping the committee will turn its attention to.

"Not every child will ever become a teacher or a doctor, but they still have important skills and abilities that should be recognised and nurtured at school," she said.

She is relishing the opportunity of grilling experts, teachers, politicians and officials who will be called in front of the committee in the coming years. She added:

"The select committees are made up of MPs from both sides of the house, so by their nature they are non-partisan – meaning we can get to the truth and cannot be accused of playing party politics with education. We will have all the facts, not just political argument."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Richard Power feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done.

We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Enfield, Edmonton, Palmers Green, Winchmore Hill & Southgate areas and Richard is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Richard a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Business leaders in fear of funding cuts catastrophe

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

LEADING figures in the borough's business world have warned that the withdrawal of council funding to the Enfield Business and Retailers Association could have catastrophic repercussions.

Enfield Council announced this week that it would be radically changing the way it develops business in town centres.

And part of this shake-up involves withdrawing financial support from the Enfield Businesses and Retailers Association.

EBRA is a non-profit organisation which manages the town centres throughout the borough.

Although notionally separate from the council, its main revenue stream to employ town centre managers came from the authority and the two logos at the bottom of its website are the council's and the North London Chamber of Commerce's.

The council is keen to stress that as the association is an independent body it will be able to apply for funding from elsewhere.

But business owners in Enfield Town say that taking away such a reliable funding stream will mean that the organisation will no longer be able to function at the same level.

Garry Kosolu, owner of Good Looking Optics, in Onge Parade, Genotin Road, in Enfield Town, said that EBRA would effectively dissolve now.

"EBRA acted as the main link between small, independent business owners and the council – and that is particularly important for things like Cycle Enfield where we need to know what's going on," he added.

Erdal Mehmet, who sits on the board of EBRA as a director, said: "I know that the council is going to blame taking away the funding on cutbacks.

"But really I think for the amount of money that EBRA costs it is good value for money. The committee members like me give our services for free.

Services for free: Erdal Mehmet

"Now the council is going to try and do town centre management in-house it will have to pay someone to do that and it will end up costing them more."

The local authority has announced that rather than funding the association it is going to create new town centre teams that will be made up of representatives of retailers and community organisations.

Alan Sitkin, the cabinet member for regeneration, said that the council now wants to engage directly with businesses, rather than speak to EBRA, who represent businesses.

He added: "Our retailers play a huge role in bringing jobs and prosperity to Enfield and they are the ideal people to help us build outstanding shopping areas to serve our residents."

Ten years on July 7 victims remembered

Legal secretary: Susan Levy, from Cuffley, was the first victim identified

Bus bomb: Jamie Gordon was killed in Tavistock Square

A MINUTE'S silence has been held and ceremonies have taken place across the capital to mark the tenth anniversary of the July 7 bombings.

At the time of the attacks in 2005 this paper paid tribute to the first victim to be identified, Susan Levy, 53, who had been travelling from her home in Newgate Street Village, near Cuffley, to her job as a legal secretary in the City, via Finsbury Park.

She was travelling south on the Piccadilly Tube line when Germaine Lindsay detonated his suicide bomb as the train moved from King's Cross towards Russell Square.

Jamie Gordon, 30, from Enfield, was killed when Hasib Hussain detonated his bomb on the top deck of the number 30 bus in Tavistock Square.

He worked in finance in an office in Old Street and usually travelled to work by train. However, his routine commute from Enfield was different that day as he had stayed overnight at a friend's house the night before.

Professor Philip Patsalos had boarded his Piccadilly line train at Southgate as usual on the morning of July 7.

He lost a leg when Germaine Lindsay and credited his survival to the fact that he was sitting in his favourite seat in the carriage.

He told the coroner that if he had been in his second favourite seat, inches from where the bomb detonated, he would have been killed.

A minute's silence was held at 11.30am yesterday to mark the tenth anniversary since the deadly attacks and survivors and relatives of those killed and injured were among those to mark the anniversary in a ceremony in St Paul's Cathedral.

Columnist

Terry
NevilleEnfield Council
Conservative group leader

In his most recent column, council leader Doug Taylor bemoaned the prospect of further cuts to services, for which, he says, the general election result gave the green light, and calls on Conservatives locally to admit we support cuts.

The fact is that while we support cuts which make the council more efficient and less bureaucratic, we do not support cuts which are the consequence of financial mismanagement and/or lack of commercial nous on the part of the Labour administration.

Three years ago Labour signed up to a 40-year lease of a new highways depot with no break clauses, irrespective of changing circumstances or requirements. The initial rent is £650,000 per annum and will rise every five years.

The spending of £600,000 for a market gardening project was supposed to create numerous jobs, but has barely managed to create three.

And they have no difficulty finding more than £3million to buy a farm in the green belt for unspecified purposes.

It is irresponsible spending of this kind that we cannot and will not support because for so long as this is happening there can be no excuse for cuts in front-line services such as street cleaning and social care.

Mr Taylor and Labour generally and conveniently forget the reason that cuts are having to be made.

The electorate across the country did not forget on May 7 and they did not buy the borrow, tax and spend policies on offer from Labour, not far short of the crass policies that have contributed to the failure of the Greek economy.

Honouring The Few who flew so valiantly 75 years ago

STARTING on Friday (July 10) and continuing throughout the summer, people across the country will be marking the 75th anniversary of the Battle of Britain.

As we recall those fateful days and celebrate the bravery of the airmen involved, we also remember our enduring debt of gratitude to all who serve or have served. The RAF Benevolent Fund believes it is important for the country to share in the memory of that battle, which played out in the summer skies and saw the heroism of The Few save Britain from invasion.

We want to invite people across the UK to join us in showing their thanks for The Few and celebrating a defining moment in our nation's history.

That is why we are launching the RAF Benevolent Fund's inaugural Great British Sunday Lunch – a chance for families, friends, and communities to gather together on Sunday September 13 to host their own lunch, whether it be around the dining table or on a picnic rug in the late summer sun.

We hope your readers will join us in honouring The Few and helping us raise vital funds so we can continue to support RAF veterans, serving personnel and their families.

Unused Oystercards worth millions to TfL

TWELVE years after its creation there are now a staggering number of Oystercards in existence.

The most recent figures show that 45.7 million have been issued, but that more than half of them haven't been used for at least a year.

Transport for London doesn't exactly shout about this, but if you no longer need an Oystercard you can claim back the balance and the deposit.

Of course, the reason TfL doesn't make much of a fuss about these dormant cards is that it is rather convenient to keep hold of your money.

These dormant cards have created a huge cash pile for TfL, which is now more than £153million – and every week the pile of money gets bigger and bigger.

Making money: Millions of Oystercards have not been used for at least a year

Of course, some people have very good reasons for wanting to keep hold of their Oystercards even if they don't use them very regularly. However, most people, if given the chance, would want their money back.

This is especially the case since the roll-out of contactless payment across the TfL network.

It is time the mayor and TfL were far more active in informing passengers about this issue.

In the meantime, if you want to claim your money back, the advice is to take your card to a Tube station ticket office (where they still exist), or alternatively call TfL customer services on 0343 222 1234.

The bigger, the better

ONE simple way to improve public services in London is for the government to set up larger councils and NHS services in London and beyond.

I support the suggestion to have five councils and five regional health services in London north, south, east, west and central.

This will bring a standard NHS and council service to the people of London at a time of need. Abolish mental health trusts and give the powers to the new regional health services to provide modern mental services.

If London is to house ten million residents in the next few years, larger public services will be needed.

We should be working with Syria's leader

REGARDING UK policy in Syria, Baroness Anelay, Minister of State of the Foreign and Commonwealth Office, gives three reasons why we cannot work with President Assad to end the civil war in that country.

They are he cannot unite the Syrian people, cannot win international backing and cannot defeat Isis. They are not good enough reasons.

Would the chances of peace in Syria be better if we were to work with Assad? It is agreed by many that only boots on the ground can eradicate Isis from Syria. The possibility that those boots could be worn by Syrian soldiers cannot be dismissed out of hand.

If there were to be a ceasefire between Assad and moderate rebels, the Syrian army, possibly boosted by some rebels and US firepower, could destroy Isis in Syria.

Only the Syrian army can eradicate Isis in a way which ensures there is not ongoing chaos in which other blood-thirsty fanatics arise to take their place.

The prospect of peace in Syria also offers hope of reducing the stream of desperate migrants out of Libya.

Is the possibility of a ceasefire not one which at the very least must be considered seriously? The US, Russia and America's powerful regional allies can bring heavy pressure to bear on both Assad and the moderate rebels.

Does the US not have a grave moral responsibility to start working with Russia to this end as a matter of urgency? Does David Cameron not have a moral responsibility to use his influence with President Obama to get this under way and Enfield Southgate MP David Burrows in turn an obligation to use his influence in government to the same end?

In print...or ONLINE

In this rapidly moving technological age people are finding new ways to advertise, especially online via the internet. But contrary to what online sites are saying and common assumptions, print advertising is not dead. There are still benefits and disadvantages to both methods and the best way to succeed is to find a vehicle that covers both bases - and that's where we come in!

The Benefits of print advertising:

1. Print adverts last longer and will be seen often.
2. They will be seen by a large number of people and have the ability to hit a specific audience.
3. There is a more creative potential with print advertising.
4. There is a positive perception of newspaper advertising - it will encourage people to think the client is serious.

The Benefits of online advertising:

1. The advert content can be easily updated.
2. It's online 24/7, 12 months a year, all round the world.
3. A massive audience, with all ages now online.
4. Very quick response - you can be receiving candidates hours after posting your advert.

We'll give you the best of both worlds - every week, all week!

FAMILY ANNOUNCEMENTS

It's been a long and loving ride for Stanley and Violet

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A SHARED love of cycling brought a couple together more than 70 years ago – and they have kept their love alive for all that time, even after upgrading their push-bikes to a motorbike and sidecar.

Stanley Nye, 92, met Violet, 93, in 1938 when they were both members of the same Edmonton cycling club when he was just 15 years old.

They started out as friends, but romance soon blossomed – until the outbreak of the World War II in 1939 when their plans to spend their lives together had to be put on hold.

“We always said we wouldn’t get married until the end of the war,” Stanley said.

Stanley served in the Army Medical Corps during the war – in the field ambulance on the front line. Months after the allied victory in Europe in May 1945 he walked up the aisle with Violet on his arm on July 21.

Even when the couple started a family after setting up home together, they kept cycling, venturing into the countryside with their young son Peter popped on the back of one or other of the bikes.

But all good things come to end. “When he got too big, that’s when we decided to get the motorbike and sidecar,” Stanley revealed.

The couple moved into their Winchmore Hill home 48 years ago and after 25 years as a butcher, Stanley changed careers – setting up his own decorating business.

“It’s been pretty good,” Stanley said. “We have had our ups and downs, like any couple, but the secret to staying together is to get along and share any problems. If you talk it through, you can come out the other end.”

And the stand-out highlight of the past 70 years?

“Well, that would be the grandchildren,” Stanley added proudly about his 32-year-old granddaughter Carmel and 26-year-old grandson Maxwell.

Shed load of fun for all the family at free festival

ARTISTS from across Enfield and the neighbouring borough of Barnet will be showing off their creativity at a free family festival in Southgate.

The Chickenshed Theatre, in Chase Side, is once again hosting a summer arts festival to showcase the “incredible” artistic talent around north London.

This year’s festival, from 10am until 4pm on Sunday, is set to feature performers from across the two boroughs.

Visitors will be able to try their hand at a variety of arts activities as well as be entertained by music, theatre and dance

Chickenshed’s Tales from the Shed drama group, youth band and community choir will be among the performers, along with many others, including Ziggy’s Jazz Band, Broomfield Blues and Enfield Music Service as well as Facefront and Platinum Arts and workshops by Tiger Monkey and Community Focus.

A similar event last year was declared a “huge success” by organisers.

Waste chiefs rubbish Pinkham plant claims

Denial: The waste authority says it has no plans to develop the Pinkham Way site

By James Cracknell

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A WASTE authority has denied there are any plans to use Pinkham Way for offloading rubbish – but is still not dumping the site.

North London Waste Authority issued a statement rejecting the claims of MP David Burrows that the site, in Bounds Green, on Enfield's borough boundary with both Barnet and Haringey, was again being considered as a destination for bin lorries.

Previous plans which were dropped by NLWA in 2013 had been for a bitterly-opposed waste disposal plant.

A public consultation on NLWA's latest plans for a new £500million incinerator at the Edmonton EcoPark ended last week.

And the authority denied anything was being planned for Pinkham Way.

A spokeswoman said: "Assuming that NLWA can secure planning permission for its proposed residual waste management facilities at Edmonton, the authority now has no current plans to develop the Pinkham Way site.

"Nor has the authority taken any action to develop the site since withdrawing its original plans for Pinkham Way in April 2013.

"However, the site will remain an asset for NLWA due to its strategic location and planning designation as a potential employment site."

Mr Burrows, the MP for Enfield Southgate, warned last week against a waste transfer station being built at Pinkham Way.

After NLWA denied any plans for such a scheme, he said he remained concerned that using Pinkham Way for waste in future had not been ruled out entirely.

"The prospect of a huge increase in lorry movements in one of the most polluted and congested roads in London is of great concern," added Mr Burrows.

Park pitch bid depends on residents' approval

A FLOODLIT sports pitch could be built at an Edmonton park – if it gets the backing of residents.

The plans for the artificial grass pitch, in Pymmes Park, are an attempt by Enfield Council to "enable more people to take part in physical activity".

Unlike the park's existing grass pitches, an artificial one can be used throughout the year, whatever the weather, and, with floodlights it can also be used after dark.

However, floodlights contribute to light pollution and the plan could require reducing open space in the park.

A consultation with residents is ongoing and the council says the plan will only go ahead if it wins their support.

Residents can also comment on where the best place in the park might be for the artificial pitch.

The pitch would be funded partly by Sport England and would be suitable for 11-a-side football matches.

Planning permission would also be required before it could be built.

To take part in the consultation, which ends on July 20, visit www.enfield.gov.uk/info/867/current_consultations

Sad story of a girl who paid terrible price for her talent

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

A CAMCORDER captures a group of north London girls celebrating a 14th birthday party.

It's a typical slumber party, punctuated with in-jokes and teasing – then, out of nowhere a pitch-perfect, dark and sensuous rendition of Marilyn Monroe's Happy Birthday emerges from Amy Winehouse – all teenage angles and tangles.

The sound of that voice rising like a ghost sent shivers through the audience watching Asif Kapadia's documentary, Amy, on its opening weekend. The tragic star was born and bred in Southgate and was a former pupil at Osidge Primary School, in Chase Side – and the film, narrated solely through her own words and those of close friends and family, paints a vivid picture of the charisma that enchanted audiences and music executives as well as her friends.

Handwritten lyrics float eerily across the screen as that voice, husky and rich, provides the soundtrack to the footage gathered from home movies, recordings of her early performances in jazz clubs and later her appearances on endless chat shows, and even her father's own reality television show.

With so much footage of her in unguarded, natural moments, Kapadia's film shows the sense of humour, intelligence and terrifying talent that was drowned out subsequently by the tabloid frenzy created by the perfect storm of talent, addiction and trauma.

It is impossible to watch the film and not feel wretchedly sad that some of those around her seemed determined to keep making money from her fame and infamy – no matter what price she would later have to pay.

In happy times: A clip from Asif Kapadia's documentary film about Amy Winehouse

SMOKE ALARMS IN RENTED PROPERTIES

New laws coming soon

Landlords will be required to:

- Fit at least one smoke alarm on each floor of their premises
- Fit a carbon monoxide alarm in rooms containing a solid fuel appliance
- Check that all alarms are working when a new tenancy starts.

To help landlords prepare for the new laws the Government has provided 500,000 free alarms.

These are available from your local fire and rescue service. Visit www.alarms4life.com for more information or to find your local service.

Please don't wait – act now and request your free alarm. It could save someone's life.

Alarms
4Life

A small change to save lives

Landlords across England are being urged to act now to ensure they are ready for new safety laws aimed at saving dozens of lives a year.

The new regulations will make it compulsory for all landlords to fit smoke alarms in rented homes. Under the new laws smoke alarms must be fitted on every floor of the property as well as carbon monoxide alarms in properties which burn solid fuels. Landlords must also check the alarms are working at the start of every new tenancy with potential penalties of up to £5,000 if they don't comply.

The Chief Fire Officers' Association (CFOA) campaigned for more than two years for the legislation to be introduced. Working closely with landlords and the main landlord associations and groups it presented key evidence and research into the Government's national review of the issue.

Mark Cashin, Chair of CFOA's Home Safety Committee, said: "We are delighted that the Government has worked with us to bring in these new laws which will improve the safety of families and stop dozens of people from losing their lives to fire each year.

"While overall smoke alarm ownership in the country stands at around 90%, those living in private rented homes are far less likely to have a working smoke alarm. Statistically people are four times more likely to die in a fire in the home if there is no working smoke alarm and over the next 10 years it is estimated that the new laws will result in 231 fewer deaths and 5,860 less injuries."

The new regulations do not apply to social landlords and Houses in Multiple Occupation (HMOs) as these are both covered by other existing laws.

To help landlords gear up for the new regulations, which subject to Parliamentary approval are expected to come into force this October, the Government has provided local Fire and Rescue Services with a limited number of free smoke and carbon monoxide alarms to distribute to give out ahead of the regulations coming into force.

Landlords can request their smoke alarm from London Fire Brigade by emailing PRSSmokeandCOAlarms@London-fire.gov.uk.

Green Dragon campaigners hit back over developers' 'silent majority'

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

CAMPAIGNERS battling against developers who want to shoehorn a branch of an upmarket supermarket chain into an historic pub have hit out at claims that a "silent majority" of people support the scheme.

Since the Green Dragon, at the corner of Green Lanes and Vicars Moor Lane, in Winchmore Hill, closed in January, residents have launched a concerted campaign to preserve the building as a pub.

They are days away from hearing whether their application to nominate the building as an asset of community has been successful.

Green Lanes Investments bought the property earlier this year and have now gone public with their plans to transform the site into a Waitrose supermarket branch.

Two weeks ago the Advertiser reported that a company working on behalf of Green Lanes Investments had sent out surveys to 1,500 people and businesses living within a quarter of a mile of the Green Dragon.

A spokesman from the development company said: "A silent majority of residents clearly want a good shop and new family homes.

What's more, local firms appreciate they will benefit from extra footfall and increased trade."

He cited the fact that when 1,500 residents were surveyed 73 per cent of people backed plans for a supermarket.

The spokesman said that the exact figures for the number of people who had responded to the survey "were still being verified", adding that there had been a response rate of "approximately 15 per cent" among residents who had been sent a survey.

That would mean about 225 people had responded to the survey and, going by the statistics provided by the company who carried it out on behalf of Green Lanes Investments, that would mean 164 people of those surveyed were in favour of the plans, with just 61 residents opposed.

However, campaigner Mike McClean says he was copied into more than 100 responses to the survey from residents who were unanimous in their condemnation of the plans.

Speaking to the Advertiser, Mr McClean said: "So they surveyed 1,500 people, get a response rate of 15 per cent and call that a silent majority even though 4,500 people signed a petition to keep it as a pub."

Edmonton-based Art Start. Children from Merryhills Primary School, in Bincote Road, Grange Park Primary School, in Worlds End Lane, Winchmore Hill, and Highlands School, in World's End Lane, Winchmore Hill, met older people in the area to come up with ideas for a series of mosaic paving slabs that will be installed in Oakwood Park at a later date.

Each one represents either an image or a message to celebrate ageing well.

Suzannah Yianni, fundraising manager at Age UK Enfield, told the Advertiser: "The mosaics look beautiful. Some of them show healthy eating, staying fit and outdoor spaces.

"It has been such a lovely project. It is about breaking down barriers between the generations."

A launch event in October will include a fun run following the path where the mosaics are placed. If it is successful, the project could be repeated next year to add more mosaics to the park.

Elena is first artist to join music showcase

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

ENFIELD'S newest music venue, launched three months ago in a converted barn, is set to combine staging live gigs with art shows.

Every second Saturday in the month, the Black Barn, in the rural surroundings of Forty Hall, showcases the talents of established and up-and-coming bands featuring different musical genres at each event.

The next music show this Saturday features southern rock and will be the first to incorporate an exhibition by a guest artist.

Mum-of-two Elena Chambou, who lives a stone's throw from the Black Barn, in Forty Hill, Enfield, has the honour of being the first to exhibit her work.

Her strikingly colourful surrealist paintings featuring goddess figures have the symbolism reminiscent of iconography from times long past.

The 41-year-old, who had no formal artistic training, claims her earlier career as a hair stylist and beautician, mixing dyes and blending make-up, equipped her with the basic knowledge of how to use colour.

She also practised alternative therapies and it was during meditation she had a vision of a "blue lady" which affected her so deeply she felt compelled to paint – and it has inspired her ever since.

"My paintings celebrate the potent power of divine femininity," she says. "They show the inner world of women to be 'goddess like', to be powerful, sensual and wise."

Elena says she has exhibited at many leading art galleries, but feels a special affinity and connection with the Black Barn because of its "energy and history".

Accompanying the music: Elena Chambou is exhibiting her artwork

"My paintings are being suspended from the ceilings to give a floating psychedelic 3D effect as the bands perform," she adds.

The Black Barn music events are an offshoot of Forty Hall's Livestock Festival, which this year will be held on August 29.

Leon Wilkin, organiser of Livestock and Black Barn, says: "The idea is to give local artists a platform to showcase and sell their work. Music and art go hand in hand and we think Elena's style of painting will add to the ambience of our Black Barn gigs. We are anticipating a full house for another magical musical evening."

You can have your event included in the Enfield Advertiser for free. To have your gig, meeting, jumble sale or class considered for publication, send the details AT LEAST 10 DAYS before the issue date to: What's On, 187 Baker Street, Enfield, EN1 3JT. You can email details of your event to ciaran.mcgrath@nlhnews.co.uk – PLEASE NOTE: We cannot guarantee that all entries will be included.

TED 2 (15, 116 mins)

IN 2012, writer-director Seth MacFarlane's mismatched buddy comedy Ted was a surprise hit.

Man's best friend wasn't a dog after all – it was a potty-mouthed, talking teddy with a penchant for beer, bongos and scantily clad ladies.

Sadly, the bear necessities of modern life don't stretch to a second film because Ted 2 is padded with as much fluff as the huggable hero.

The sequel is a vast improvement on MacFarlane's previous film, A Million Ways To Die In The West, but even root canal treatment would be preferable to a repeat viewing of that tumbleweed spoof.

The sweetness and romance, which distinguished the original Ted, have been diluted to the point of blandness here and a climactic set piece at a pop culture convention is an unsightly mess.

Direction plods without any urgency and politically incorrect, gross-out interludes are laced with malice.

Between the frequent yawns, MacFarlane conjures moments of magic – new love interest Amanda Seyfried's a cappella rendition of Mean Ol' Moon, a bizarre yet hilarious cameo by Liam Neeson – but these are fleeting.

Ted 2 opens with John Bennett (Mark Wahlberg) divorced from Lori (Mila Kunis) and fur ball companion Ted (voiced by MacFarlane) poised to walk down the aisle with a brassy checkout girl called Tami-Lynn (Jessica Barth).

One year later, the honeymoon is over and Ted and Tami-Lynn are arguing incessantly.

Ted's supermarket co-worker (Cocoa Brown) passes on a nugget of her wisdom: "You better have a baby or your marriage is over."

The bear lacks the necessary appendage

Grin and bear it

THUNDER BUDDIES:
Mark Wahlberg and Ted

to impregnate Tami-Lynn, so he hatches a plot to steal the sperm of American football legend Tom Brady (playing himself).

The bear-brained scheme misfires and Ted and Tami-Lynn approach an adoption agency.

Their application is red flagged because the state of Massachusetts recognises Ted as a piece of property not a person.

Soon after, the bear loses his job and the marriage is annulled.

"We take this all the way to Judge Judy if we have to," bellows John – and the pals head to court with idealistic attorney Samantha L Jackson (Seyfried) to uphold Ted's civil rights.

Ted 2 runs on empty in terms of originality, relying entirely on our affection for the characters to sustain interest.

Wahlberg trades lacklustre banter with his computer-generated pal and there's an absence of on-screen chemistry with Seyfried.

A running gag about her facial similarity to a character from The Lord Of The Rings develops a stitch before its punchline, while fleeting appearances from John's gay co-worker (Patrick Warburton) and his boyfriend (Michael Dorn) are superfluous.

At a critical juncture in the court case, Ted activates the voicebox in his chest and sweetly trills: "I love you!"

Regrettably, it's impossible to feel similarly enamoured with MacFarlane's sequel.

Landlords and tenants: Are you aware of the risk of Legionella?

Why landlords must carry out a risk assessment to ensure tenants' safety.

The term Legionnaires' disease may be well-known, but the risk Legionella bacteria pose to residents of rental property is less widely publicised.

There are around 500 deaths and hundreds more cases of the disease reported in the UK every year, many of which stem from exposure to bacteria in rented properties. Thousands of residents contract the disease without knowing they have contracted it.

Earlier in 2015 a pensioner in the North West, who was living in a 38-flat complex owned by a social landlord, died from the disease.

This unfortunate case highlights the importance of reducing the risk of Legionella bacteria in rented properties.

If they haven't done so already, your letting agent should be advising you how to minimise the risk of exposure to these harmful bacteria.

Landlords have always had a duty to protect their tenants from the risk of Legionnaires' disease, the issue has, however, taken on an increased profile recently after an update from the Health and Safety Executive (HSE) was issued in February 2014.

The HSE confirmed that all premises with a water system are now within the scope of the Approved Code of Practice, after the organisation determined that Legionella can be prevalent in smaller domestic water systems.

There is a real and present risk in rental properties and landlords, despite some being blissfully unaware of their duties, need to take this seriously and get their properties checked.

Legionellosis is the umbrella term given to the group of illnesses caused by Legionella bacteria. The illnesses are transmitted by inhalation of water or soil contaminated by Legionella bacteria.

The bacteria thrive in stagnant water heated at between 20°C and 40°C (the bacteria is dormant at under 20°C and does not survive above 60°C).

Rental properties are considered to have an increased risk of Legionella developing, due to regular refurbishments and frequent periods when the property is empty, potentially causing water supply systems to become stagnant.

With this in mind, landlords must carry out a risk assessment of their property to identify and assess potential sources of exposure. If any significant risks are identified, you must then introduce a course of action to prevent or control these risks.

For landlords the message is clear: don't put up with anything other than a credible risk assessment. Kings Group cares about tenants and their health and therefore offers reliable risk assessments to its clients. You are able to carry out the risk assessment yourself as long as you fully understand the ongoing duty of care and are willing to insure against a tenant case yourself. If you choose to do so, these are the questions you need to be asking:

● Are conditions right for the bacteria to multiply? Is the cold water temperature below 20°C and is the hot water temp between 50°C and 60°C?

● Are there areas where stagnant water occurs (deadlegs), e.g. pipes to a washing machine that is no longer used?

● Are there infrequently used showers, taps? Are they being bleached once a week?

● Is there debris in the system, such as rust, sludge or scale (often a problem in old metal cisterns), that could provide food for growing legionella?

● Are there thermostatic mixing valves that set a favourable outlet temperature for legionella growth?

● Are any of your employees, residents, visitors etc vulnerable to infection, e.g. older people, those already ill?

● Are you maintaining the required COSHH records?

● Has the main water feed been checked and has the main water storage tank been checked and covered?

● Are your tenants receiving regular information and is there a weather watch ongoing to look out for higher temperatures that could trigger the disease?

To ensure the safety of tenants, landlords have a legal obligation to comply with Legionella legislation, just like they would with gas and electrical safety checks.

As with all legislation like this, there are fines for non-compliance – which could be up to as much as £20,000. A Devonshire landlord has just been fined £4,000 for non-compliance.

If you're letting agent is yet to contact you about this, then you need to be asking them why.

For further guidance regarding the risk of Legionella in your property, you can get in touch with us on Twitter (@KingsGroupLLP), Facebook (fb.com/KingsGroupLLP) or call Kings Group Hackney's Branch Manager, Brendon Daley, on 020 8510 0808.

In print... ...or Online

We'll give you the best of both worlds...every week, all week!

In this rapidly moving technological age people are finding new ways to advertise, especially online via the internet. But contrary to what online sites are saying and common assumptions, print advertising is not dead. There are still benefits and disadvantages to both methods and the best way to succeed is to find a vehicle that covers both bases - and that's where we come in!

The Benefits of print advertising:

1. Print adverts last longer and will be seen often.
2. They will be seen by a large number of people and have the ability to hit a specific audience.
3. There is a more creative potential with print advertising.
4. There is a positive perception of newspaper advertising - it will encourage people to think the client is serious.

The Benefits of online advertising:

1. The advert content can be easily updated.
2. It's online 24/7, 12 months a year, all round the world.
3. A massive audience, with all ages now online.
4. Very quick response - you can be receiving candidates hours after posting your advert.

The Advertiser series of newspapers is distributed every week and the latest editions can be found on our website at

Family Support Worker

Haringey Building Bridges Service

Temporary full time post to the end of June 2016

£21,508 – £ 23,299 including Outer London Weighting

Are you passionate about supporting children and families?

Haringey Building Bridges is funded through the Big Lottery Improving Futures Programme and is an exciting partnership service supporting families with children aged 5 to 10 to address challenges and avoid statutory intervention. We are using Family Action's successful model of early intervention to support parents, carers and children to move strongly into the future.

You will be part of a small and committed team based in the community and will have the support needed to enhance your family work skills in a rewarding context.

We need you if you have experience of working with parents, children and young people with multiple needs, in their homes or the community. You will have an NVQ 3 qualification or equivalent. Above all you will have excellent communication skills and the ability to engage adults and children and help them build their skills, self worth and resilience.

We are forward looking, ambitious and with a commitment to continuous improvement. We are a people focused, can-do organisation, which strives for excellence in all we do and operate with mutual respect. If you share these values and behaviours and have the necessary skills then we look forward to hearing from you.

Appointments are subject to Family Action receiving an enhanced disclosure from the Disclosure and Barring Service that we consider acceptable.

For an application pack and further information, please visit www.family-action.org.uk/workingwithus

Please email completed applications to:
completed.application13@family-action.org.uk

Closing date: 10 am, 20 July; Interviews Thursday 23th July

Family Action offers good working conditions, a comprehensive training programme and a Group Personal Pension Scheme (GPPS). We welcome applications from all sections of the community.

BENTALEB STAYS

Going nowhere: Nabil Bentaleb has signed a five-year deal with Spurs

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

NABIL BENTALEB has signed a new five-year contract with Tottenham Hotspur.

The 20-year-old Algerian international midfielder is a graduate from Spurs' academy and became an integral part of the first team last season, making 35 appearances in all competitions.

Meanwhile, the anticipated summer clear-out has begun at Tottenham with three midfielder players having left the club over the past week.

Head coach Mauricio Pochettino is believed to be attempting to offload a number of fringe members of the squad to enable him to bring in some new faces ahead of the start of the Premier League season.

And Spurs have now started to achieve this as Paulinho and Etienne Capoue have moved to Chinese club Guangzhou Evergrande and Premier League newcomers Watford respectively, while Lewis Holtby's loan switch to Hamburg has been made permanent.

Brazilian international Paulinho arrived at Spurs in a big-money deal from Corinthians in the summer of 2013 but, after an encouraging start to his career at White Hart Lane, he failed to make the expected impact and only featured sporadically in the league last season. He made 67 appearances for the club in all competitions, scored ten goals.

French midfielder Capoue was another of the seven players who signed for Spurs in the summer of 2013 when he joined from Toulouse but only made 36 appearances in his two years with the club.

Former Germany under-21 captain Holtby has signed for Bundesliga outfit Hamburg after impressing for them on loan last season. He joined Spurs in January 2013 and made 41 appearances.

□ Summer signing Kieran Trippier has claimed that he is delighted with the way that he has settled into life at Spurs.

The full-back joined the club from Burnley last month and he revealed that he has enjoyed his first few days of pre-season training.

"I knew a few of the players before I joined and it's key to bond with the lads as soon as possible," he said. "It's been a great couple of days.

"Ever since I first walked through the doors, everyone has made me feel so welcome, the staff have been great and so have my team-mates. It's a huge club but it feels like home straight away. I'm really looking forward to the challenges ahead.

"I enjoyed playing against them and I'm so happy to have the opportunity now to play at White Hart Lane in a Spurs shirt. I can remember walking out of the tunnel last season and thinking what a fierce atmosphere it was at the stadium."

Nurse stars in North Middlesex's win

CONNOR NURSE shone with the ball as North Middlesex romped to a five-wicket victory at Indian Gymkhana in the top flight of the Middlesex County Cricket League on Saturday.

Having decided to bat first, Chirag Patel (33) helped the hosts to make it to 47-1, but they then collapsed horribly in the face of some stunning bowling from Nurse (6-26) – losing their last nine wickets for the addition of just 50 runs as they were dismissed for 97.

North Middlesex stumbled to 35-3 in reply, but Liam O'Driscoll (31) and Tom Nicoll (30) added 56 for the fourth wicket to take them to the brink of victory as the visitors eased to 98-5.

Meanwhile, Hornsey are just two points above the drop zone in Division Two after settling for a losing draw from their trip to Enfield.

The visitors reduced Enfield to 14-3 batting first as Sean Solia (3-41) impressed with the ball, but Craig Williams (111), Kyal Bacchus-Brown (61 not out) and Ewart Thompson (46) led a fine fightback which took the hosts up to 251-6.

Hornsey then looked to be in danger of being beaten when they slumped to 75-5, but Jack Bruce (53 not out) and Jack Goldberg (43 not out) came to their rescue with an unbroken sixth-wicket stand of 108 which guided them to safety at 183-5.

Elsewhere, Highgate remain clear at the top of Division Three despite only claiming a losing draw at Barnes.

Tom Smith led the way with 58 as the hosts amassed 227-8 batting first and Highgate never really looked like reaching their target as they laboured to 160-7 in reply.

But North London finally brought an end to their wait for a first win of the season as they enjoyed a 58-run victory at home to Kenton.

Tom Wakeford (61) and Hussain Shabbir (60) were the main contributors as North London amassed 203 batting first, before Roshan Tennakoon took 4-39 to help dismiss Kenton for 145 despite 66 from Ash Karia.

Ujah's delight at British title triumph

CHIJIINDU UJAH can look forward to competing in next month's World Athletics Championships after securing the British 100metres title in Birmingham on Sunday.

The sprinter from Enfield and Haringey Athletic Club hit the headlines last year by breaking the ten-second barrier, but had struggled to find his best form on the big occasion since then – coming third in the British Championships last year to miss out on a place in the European Championships and then false starting to be disqualified from the final of the 60m at the European Indoor Championships in Prague earlier this year.

However, Ujah lived up to his billing as pre-event favourite by producing a dominant display in the final to romp to victory in 10.10seconds.

"It feels good after last year," he said. "Starting as favourite, there was a lot of pressure on me but I have learnt to deal with it.

"Everyone has been telling me to keep my head. I've had a tough time – obviously false starting in Prague – but I've learnt from that and hopefully will be a stepping stone towards the World Championships.

"I really wanted both the indoor and outdoor British titles this year and to come out and do them at the age of 21 is good. I can build on this now."

Bonne Buwembo also enjoyed a weekend to remember in Birmingham as he was crowned British javelin champion (70.34m), while the women's 200m proved to be a particularly successful event for the club as Margaret Adeoye triumphed (23.51secs) and Bianca Williams came second (23.56secs).

Williams was also runner-up in the 100m (11.43secs) – with Desiree Henry following her over the line in third (11.45secs) – while Callum Wilkinson won silver in the men's 5,000m walk (a personal best 20minutes 21.57secs) and Chris Kandu was equal second in the men's high jump (2.20m).
